

Representatives from Universitas PGRI Madiun (UNIPMA) took center stage during the SARITAAN 2024 International Conference on October 10, 2024, showcasing their groundbreaking research and innovative approaches in education and technology. The conference, hosted by Ilocos Sur Polytechnic State College (ISPSC), gathered participants from across Southeast Asia to present research aimed at transforming various sectors.

UNIPMA contributed significantly to the conference with presentations on topics such as the "Implementation of H5P in Interactive Games for Cyber Security Awareness" and the "Technology Acceptance Model: Intention Implementation of e-Government Systems." These projects demonstrated the university's focus on digital literacy and technological advancement in both educational and governmental settings.

Moreover, the university's cultural contribution was evident in a presentation about "Foreigner's Cultural Arts Learning Method" under the Indonesian Art and Culture Scholarship Program. This study highlighted how UNIPMA fosters intercultural understanding through arts and education, emphasizing its commitment to preserving and promoting Indonesian culture.

UNIPMA's involvement at SARITAAN 2024 showcased not only their academic and research strengths but also their dedication to addressing global challenges in education and technology. Their contributions have positioned them as a vital player in the region's academic discourse.
